Program Description:

(1) Our award winning newsletter disseminates news and legislative information of interest to the assistance dog partners around the world, the programs that train these special dogs and others with a personal or professional interest in the assistance dog field. (2) Our Information & Advocacy Center helps disabled persons faced with the anguish of access denial; we also answer queries from families with disabled children, disabled adults, trainers, businesses, government officials, health care professionals and members of the public via phone, fax, and email. (3) IAADP provides grants of financial aid to "save a partnership," on a case by case basis through an emergency veterinary fund. It is meant to help in cases when an assistance dog has a major veterinary problem and the only impediment to continuing a working career is that the the disabled person is unable to afford the recommended treatment.
